

20260506 On Why Donald Trump is Targeting my Home

Donald Trump is so afraid of facing a courtroom to answer for his ongoing illegal spying into my life that he has resorted to driving a parade of cars past my home - 24/7 as an effort to intimidate me and prevent me from filing suit against him.

Donald's actions are so overbearing upon my freedom of movement and my freedom of expression that I am arguing that he is attempting to place me inside of a false imprisonment - of which I am constantly forced to exert efforts to (try and) escape.

Donald Trump is continuously monitoring my computer, my cell phone, and my life as a means of illegally monitoring my legal work so that he can gather an illegal amount of information that he seeks to use against me to defend himself - both inside of court and outside of court.

Donald's actions are attempts to threaten me, attempts to extort me, and attempts to constantly disrupt the focus that is required to produce legal work on the highest levels of which I am capable.

These are the lowlife tactics of a gangster thug, not of an esteemed President of the USA.

If I had wanted to engage in gangster-ism, I would have continued my life in a street-life path.

Had I supported a gangster for President, I would have advocated on behalf of 50 Cent or Snoop Dogg.

Apparently, illegal spying, false imprisonments, harassments, and the like are all just par for the course in the modern business environment.

Donald Trump: you will spend far more on this 'problem' than was necessary - had you simply just backed off of my home and left my family in peace.

Your own insecurities are leading you into this bigger and bigger problem.

You are a fool - a fool that has yet to learn his lesson.
